

The Washington Times

September 1, 2009

Inside the Beltway: The Write Way

Written by Jennifer Harper

The mother of all petitions is being readied for delivery to Capitol Hill, courtesy of the National Center for Policy Analysis. The nonpartisan research group has accrued 1.2 million verified signatures of folks allied against Obamacare. It is expected to be the largest policy petition to be presented before Congress.

"Boxes and boxes and boxes. Probably about 30 or so. It's a way to show there are real people behind this," spokeswoman Catherine Daniell tells Beltway.

No doubt, the petition in all its glory will be delivered on Sept. 9 by a bunch of weight lifters - and heavyweights. Among those making an appearance: Republicans Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison of Texas; Sen. Jim DeMint of South Carolina; House Minority Leader John A. Boehner of Ohio; Pete du Pont, former Delaware governor and NCPA policy chairman; and John Goodman, CEO of the nonpartisan research group.

And the petition is still live. For a look, check out www.FreeOurHealthCareNow.com.